

Chartered in 1956 as a 501(c)(3) non-profit, we are committed to enhancing the professionalism of women in criminal justice and promoting cooperation and coordination of activities among criminal justice agencies. Members consist of sworn officers and associates of the criminal justice system from agencies throughout North Carolina.

In 2017, NCLEWA received a $20,000 donation from Bank of America toward the NCLEWA Criminal Justice Scholarship Program. This donation was made in recognition of four female NC Police Chiefs: Chief Hawkins, Chief Deck-Brown, Chief Davis, and Chief Andrews.

Benefits of Membership

- NCLEWA is comprised of criminal justice professionals from various agencies throughout the state of North Carolina.
- Networking, meeting inspiring women in YOUR field
- Working together, educating, and empowering one another
- Building lasting and meaningful relationships and having meaningful conversations
- Having access to opportunities for yourself and your agency
- Finding YOUR voice and offering feedback that impacts the whole field by being represented with a seat on the Criminal Justice Standards Commission

Training Conference

Annual training conferences provide up-to-date, informative training which is used by members in the course of performing their duties and in general day-to-day living. The training is coordinated through the North Carolina Justice Academy and results in a minimum of 24 hours of continuing education credits. Past courses have included SCAT, Verbal Judo, Report Writing, Officer Involved Shootings, Firearms, Spanish, Leadership, and Preparing for Promotional Assessments.

Career Advancement

NCLEWA is made up of members of various levels of rank and title. By networking with women who have various experiences in the field of criminal justice, members are able to broaden their views and understanding. Having a well-balanced understanding of the criminal justice system, in conjunction with the training provided in the annual conferences, allows for members to excel in their own careers.
